DETAILED ACTION

The application, received on 04/02/2001 has been examined, and Claims 1-25 are pending. The examiner will make reference to the published application of the instant application, which is U.S. Publication Application #2002/0143690, hereinafter "Mahajan", when citing portions of the specification. The objections and rejections are as stated below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112 2nd Paragraph

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 6-7,12,18-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In particular, these claims each refer to various modules or components, which are not supported in the specification with sufficient detail to be understood by one of ordinary skill in the art. By way of example, at the intermediate level, "Market Data" is described in the specification as dynamic market and product information from feed handler, and the feed handler is then later described as receiving data from Reuters/SSL, RTS. See (Mahajan, Para. 69). A second example is the source-level "Order Interface", mentioned at (Mahajan, Para. 32, item 25), but never discussed again. While one of ordinary skill in the art can discern generally what market data is and what an order interface is, these one-line descriptions are entirely too brief to such that the ordinary practitioner would understand applicants' claims. Corrective measures will be required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Buist, U.S. Patent #6408282. Before detailing the rejection, the examiner reminds applicant that although the application is read in light of the specification, the claims still must be given the broadest reasonable interpretation. See In re Hyatt, 211 F.3d 1367, 1372, 54 USPQ2d 1664, 1667 (Fed. Cir. 2000).

Then with regard to Claims 1,4,13,16,24-25, Buist teaches a method, apparatus, and medium encoded for:

supplying information to the interface and transferring information from the interface through at least one intermediate component layer; (Figure 2, items 30,40)

supplying information to said intermediate component layer and transferring information from said intermediate component layer through at least one information source layer; and (Figure 2, item 50)

said user interface or said workspace further comprises at least one sub interface, which sub interface is selected from the group comprising:

an order entry interface, (Figures 11,15)

an order modification interface, (Figures 11,15,23)

an order monitoring interface, (Figures 7,15)

an instrument monitoring interface, and (Figures 14,15)

a market monitoring interface. (Figures 13,15,16c,20) and;

With regard to Claims 2,14, Buist teaches a method and apparatus wherein:

said information source layer further comprises at least one information source chosen from the group comprising a Product Server information source, a Feed Handler information source, and an Order Interface information source.
(Col. 7, line 56 – Col. 8, line 2)

With regard to Claim 8,20, Buist teaches a method and apparatus wherein:

said intermediate component layer is comprised of at least one intermediate component selected from a predetermined group of intermediate components, wherein said selection occurs at least in part based upon the sub interface or sub interfaces chosen. (See Figures 1-2; Col. 6, line 62 – Col. 7, line 12; Col. 8, lines 48-62; discussing arrangements based on broker/dealer participation and other factors relating to type of trading being completed, which effects the type of GUI presented to the user)

With regard to Claim 9,21, Buist teaches a method and apparatus wherein:

said information source layer is comprised of at least one information source selected from a predetermined group of information sources, wherein said selection occurs at least in part based upon the sub interface or sub interfaces chosen.
(See Figures 1-2; Col. 6, line 62 – Col. 7, line 12; Col. 8, lines 48-62; discussing arrangements based on broker/dealer participation and other factors relating to type of trading being completed, which effects the type of GUI presented to the user) said workspace has a default configuration.

(Figures 5a,5b; Col. 18, lines 17-21a)

With regard to Claim 12, Buist teaches an apparatus wherein:

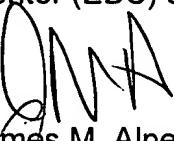

said default configuration comprises a New Orders window and an Executions window.
(Figures 5a,5b which demonstrates a new orders and open orders list, along with order verification for execution)
